

Litian Xiao

Ph.D. Litian Xiao is now a researcher at Beijing Special Engineering Design and Research Institute and a professor at Tsinghua University. He has long been engaged in the overall technology research of space launch site construction, launch and space transportation system, test launch, and made outstanding contributions. He has won one National Scientific and Technological Progress Special Award, one second Award, one Gold Award for National Excellent Engineering Design, one first Award for Computer Software and one second Prize. He has got 43 awards for Scientific and Technological Progress at the ministerial level, including 3 for the first Awards and 10 for the second Awards. He obtained 6 national invention patents, published more than 100 academic papers. He enjoys special government allowance of the State Council, and has won the China Space Fund Award, the Information Outstanding Contribution Award, the Scientific and Technological Innovation Contribution Award and so on.